A Quarterly Report To The Citizens Of Westtown Township

Manager's Report - Spring, 2014

Dear Residents of Westtown Township,

The Board of Supervisors is pleased to announce and welcome Mr. Robert R. Pingar, P.E. as our new Township Manager and Director of Engineering. United, the Board of Supervisors reached out to Mr. Pingar in their effort to find new leadership for the administration of Westtown Township. Mr. Pingar replaces Mr. Robert Layman, who served Westtown Township for eleven years. The Board wishes Mr. Layman well in his future endeavors, and has had an amicable transition.

Mr. Pingar is a 17-year resident of Westtown Township who will bring his unique experience and expertise to the responsibility of managing and administering our township's resources. He will help Westtown realize its potential, as our community's challenges have become increasingly complex.

Mr. Pingar will be overseeing several important initiatives: Sewage Management Program, organization and document management systems, communications to better inform and serve our residents, and redesign of the Westtown Township website. As Director of Engineering, he will provide guidance and oversight for infrastructure (roads, bridges, sewer, and stormwater management), planning, design, and construction projects.

Mr. Pingar graduated from Penn State University in 1977 with an Associate's degree in Surveying Technology, and in 1981 with a B.S. degree in Mining Engineering. He has worked for several engineering firms over his +30 year career, serving many regional municipalities, as well as being Westtown's engineering consultant. He was the Westtown Township Engineer from 2005 to 2013.

Rob and his wife Janice will be celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary in June. They have two daughters: Sarah, a 2012 graduate of Rustin High, and now a junior at the University of Delaware; and Nicole who is graduating from Rustin in June 2014, then attending Penn State in July 2014. Rob's interests include vacationing in the North Carolina Outer Banks, traveling, American history, blues music, and of course everything Penn State.

We are excited to have Rob on board. He will not only bring strong management skills and experiences, but also is the ideal leader to work with the Board of Supervisors and Township staff in serving the Westtown community.

Rob is looking forward to serving the residents of Westtown Township and is available at rpingar@westtown.org, or by calling the Westtown Township office.

Board of Supervisors,

- Carol De Wolf, Chair
- Mike Di Domenico, Vice Chair
- Tom Haws, Police Commissioner

If Walls Could Talk

By Gail O. Guterl, Westtown Township Historical Commission Member

Four walls punctuated by windows! Every house has them—inanimate, silent! But if walls could speak, especially old walls, they would have fascinating stories to tell. Take for example, the five structures that make up the Bartram's farm enclave at 101-104 Bartrams Lane in Westtown.

The farm has been owned by Bartrams for six generations since 1857. Growing things are in the genes of this family, who are directly descended from naturalist John Bartram of Philadelphia's Bartram's Garden.

Originally a 140-acre farm (now 5 acres), situated east of Westtown School and north of Johnny's Way, it was purchased from the Seals just before the Civil War by John Hibberd Bartram, the fourth recorded owner of the land. (The Hickman family was the first owners of the farm through a Penn land grant. The property went from Hickman father to son to brother, who eventually sold it to the Grays, who then sold the property to the Seals.) Bartram had fruit trees and raised asparagus, which he sold in Philadelphia. He also ran an extensive dairy and livestock operation.

The land and family have witnessed a lot; they farmed through times of national and international conflict, natural events like blights, hurricanes and blizzards, and personal tragedies like the untimely accidental deaths of three of its owners. The family saw the relocation of graves from a cemetery on the property near Manley Road (the last resting plots of the land's first owners, the Hickmans) to East Goshen Baptist Cemetery. And like many large tracts of open land, it eventually saw its boundaries shrink through land sales.

In 1988-89, at the request of a township group gathering the histories of old houses in the municipality, John Hibberd Bartram (1921-1993), named after the great grandfather who originally purchased the tract, recorded his memories of the farm. Unemotionally and in simple straightforward language, Bartram wrote about the death of his grandfather. "At that time [1924] my grandfather, George Hibberd Bartram, died from a fall from a 20-foot ladder while picking cherries." What John Hibberd does not reveal is that he, a three year old, witnessed the accident, says his daughter Evelyn Bartram Dudas, commenting that her great grandfather, with a broken neck, was transported by buckboard wagon to West Chester Memorial Hospital, where he died several days later.

In his history, John Hibberd does not relate the sad fate of his own father, just 10 days before John Hibberd married Marion Reynolds. In 1943, his father, George Maurice, was crushed by a tractor and died while working on the farm.

A contemporary owner, John Dudas, Evelyn's husband, died July 12, 1982, in a scuba diving accident while exploring the torpedoed wreck of the Sommerstad, 30 nautical miles south east of Fire Island. The ship was sunk in World War I. The Dudas', avid scuba divers, had purchased one of the houses on the property from her father John Hibberd in 1971 and operated Dudas Diving Duds from a barn on the property. Evelyn Dudas made history when in 1967, at age 22, she became the first woman to successfully dive on the Andrea Doria. The 48-year-old diving supply business is still there but will close in August.

"When my great grandfather...purchased this farm," John Hibberd Bartram writes in his 1980s history, "there were three houses, plus the current springhouse, a sheep barn, with unusual square support pillars, and a sheep shed near the tenant house. One house was near what is now Nectar Lane," Bartram wrote. "I believe this was the first house built by the Hickmans. Tradition has it that Hickmans lived in a cave on this property while building their first house here.” A 1973 township history by Arthur James claims three of the Hickman’s seven children were born in that cave.

The sheep shed is long gone, as are two ponds that were on the property. Dudas says a house on Nectar Lane stands on the spot where one pond used to be. No one knows where the cave is—perhaps under the Nectar Lane cul-de-sac—but the springhouse and the tenant house, which have been enlarged and modernized, still stand. The diving shop occupies the barn that housed animals at one time, then the orchard business. The orchard business was bolstered by sales from two farm stands on two corners of routes 926 and 202 at different times. A large portion of the barn burned down in January 1956. Because it was an unusually cold winter, “we are sure a tramp set the barn on fire accidentally,” John Hibberd wrote. A cottage, built around 1920 and occupied by a Bartram, sits on the north side of the lane and is home to one of Dudas’ four sisters. Dudas remembers growing up with her sisters in the main house, a white stucco-over-stone structure, across the lane from the barn.

In his history of the property, her father relates that this house, with 16-inch deep window frames, built-in drawers under the living room windows, two walk-in fireplaces and unusual square windows, probably dates back to the 1700s “We have no date stone for the house, but...the wood in the windows was hand-hewn and must be from the 1700s. The hardware in this section of the house is also indicative of the 1700s.”

Interestingly, in the 1960s John Hibberd decided he “didn’t like the traffic around here,” compounded by the fact he had had heart valve surgery at age 45 and could no longer farm, Dudas remembers, so he gave up his orchard and cider-making business, “and bought a 300-acre farm in Gettysburg where he grew Christmas trees.” Because his wife did not want to move, he commuted between Westtown and that farm each week until his retirement.

Luckily, the youngest generation of Bartram’s is interested in keeping the property in the family. One of Dudas’ nephews, Tom McEaney, recently purchased the stucco-over-stone house and hopes to renovate it. Another will convert the barn, which houses the diving supply business, into a home. That is only fitting for the oldest settled property in Westtown Township.

Friends of Oakbourne News

Tom Bare, President, Friends of Oakbourne

Have you seen any American Elm trees lately? Chances are good that many of you have never seen an American elm since this native American tree has been decimated by Dutch Elm Disease (DED); this fungal disease (spread by the elm bark beetle) was accidentally brought to our country from England or France in 1930 or 1931 and has killed around 100 million American Elms, essentially wiping out the mature elm population in the United States and Canada. There are a few isolated stands of mature American elms remaining, mostly in Florida and parts of Canada where they have been isolated from the fungus. Interestingly, young elms seem to be immune to DED, but as they mature, they usually fall victim to the fungus and never grow beyond 30-40 feet in height.

American elms are magnificent stately vase-shaped trees with gracefully arched branches that made them favorites to line city streets and parks. They can be long lived trees with lifetimes extending up to 300 years under ideal growing conditions and they can reach heights of 100 feet with a tree canopy as wide as 80 – 100 feet.

While Dutch Elm Disease can't be cured, there are fungicides that can prolong the life of the tree for several years; however, in the last 20 -30 years much research has been carried out investigating strains of existing American Elms as well as newly created strains that have a natural resistance to DED. One strain of American elm that is highly resistant to DED is the Princeton American Elm, which is derived from a huge elm that was 278 years old located in New Jersey on the corner of Witherspoon and Wiggins Streets near Princeton University. This tree and those derived from it are very resistant to DED and are being planted throughout the United States in an effort to reestablish the American elm. The Friends of Oakbourne planted a Princeton American elm (Ulmus americana 'Princeton') in Oakbourne Park in 2012 as part of our Tree Dedication Program. Contact Tom Bare (tmbare@hotmail.com or 610-399-1572) if you are interested in donating a tree to be planted in Oakbourne Park to honor a special person or loved one or to commemorate an important occasion.

Next meeting of the Friends of Oakbourne: April 17, 7 pm, Dunning Room, Oakbourne Mansion. All are welcome.

The End of an Era - Elaine Adler Retires

The Board of Supervisors and the township staff would like to congratulate Elaine Adler on her retirement, after 38 years of dedicated service to Westtown.

Elaine began working part time for the township in 1976. At that time, the township operated out of the old school building at Route 202 and E. Pleasant Grove Road. The structure also served as the police station. Township meetings were held in an old classroom. Later, as the Police Department expanded, township meetings were moved to Oakbourne Mansion. In 2001, the township offices moved to their present location at the former 1st National Bank building on 202. The meeting room was added and for the first time, meetings and administration were in the same building. During her tenure, Mrs. Adler witnessed the modernization of the office, and recalls hand typing sewer bills prior to computerization in the early 1980's, and the reluctant migration to the Microsoft world in the late '90s.

Over the years, Elaine assumed many responsibilities, sometimes simultaneously: Parks & Recreation, interim Secretary & Treasurer, Tax Collector, and Planning & Zoning Director. She was present during major milestones in township history such as the acquisition of the Westtown Sewer Company, and the hiring of the first Township Manager in 1997. Township business became such a part of her consciousness that she could rattle off the parcel number and history of any address. The depth of her knowledge and experience will be missed.

Since her retirement, Elaine has been busy in her yard, preparing her garden, while her 4-legged sidekick, Hilde, chases squirrels and geese. As she has for the past 35 years, Elaine remains active in the American Rose Society, serving on its Board of Directors. She also plans to visit friends and family across the country. She has found that retirement seems to equate with availability, and has been fielding a number of invitations to volunteer for various projects.

It has been said that retirement can only be enjoyed at the right time: too early and the mind atrophies, too late and the body suffers. We sincerely wish Elaine well in this new phase of her life.

Septic System Tips:

Think at the sink:

Your system contains living organisms that digest and treat waste. Do not pour toxins such as medicines, bleach, or other chemicals down your drain.

Eliminating use of a garbage disposal can reduce the amount of fats, grease and solids entering your septic tank and ultimately clogging the drainfield. Disposal use results in more frequent pumping.

Don't overload the commode:

Household products can clog and potentially damage your system. Don't flush feminine hygiene products, condoms, diapers, cigarette butts, cat litter, or coffee grounds.

Don't strain the drain:

Run your dishwasher and washing machine only when full.

Repair leaky toilets and pipes, and use high efficiency faucets.

Shield your field:

Do not park or drive on your drainfield.

Keep trees and shrubs at least 35 feet away from your drainfield to prevent roots from plugging or breaking the pipes.

Direct roof drains, sump pumps, and other rainwater drainage systems away from the area.

The township recently hired Travis DeCaro as the On-Lot Management Coordinator. He will be assisting residents with the implementation of the OLM plan, including making sure on-lot systems are inspected and properly maintained. If you have questions, Travis can be reached at tdecaro@westtown.org or by calling the Township office.
